

About me

María Yáñez

quick story...

I used to believe in fairies. Every night, I left some nuts and cottons wrapped as a tiny bed on my sleeping table, I was convinced that if I truly believed on it, with all my strength, a fairy would be my friend, and I would keep her secret.

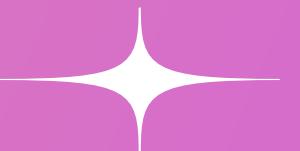

But, she never came. and I stopped making her bed and wasting nuts, fairies don't exist, I realized; but my power to believe does.

I am

María Yáñez, a girl with such a nice childhood and parents that allowed me to believe in fairies.

(Geographically) I'm a copywriter born in Venezuela, raised in Canary Islands, coming from Madrid and currently based in Berlin.

This is a photo of me btw, I now have longer hair and more blondie since I spent a lot of time being happy last summer.

This is a list of some things I love.

- Writing
- My family
- My friends
- Music
- Sunday mornings
- Yoga
- Walks
- Surf
- Sun
- New experiences
- Plot twists
- Making pointless Power Points
- Creativity
- Kid's laughing
- Eating vegan burgers
- The sea
- Hearing german podcasts
- Asking questions
- Living simple
- Going on dates
- Laughing
- Making someone laugh
- Making tea
- Passionate people
- Honesty
- Love

Guess that's it!

María Yáñez